JUSTICE COURT JURY LIST ANNOUNCED

The CORE

July 2 instead of July 4 should be observed as Independence Day, according to Mark Farrand, director of research for the Huntington Library near Pasadena, who after a year of careful work declares the document was signed July 2 instead of July 4.

Declaring that hospitals and other institutions are not fields for competitive church work, Rev. W. M. Bours of the San Francisco hospital chairman of the Federation of Churches there, urged churchwomen to be tolerant and co-operative in the work. Rev. Bours addressed the convention of House of Churchwomen in Grace Episcopal cathedral.

Two police officers have been suspended by the chief of police of Sacramento pending charges of tampering with the files of the police department there have been investigated.

The revised French-American arbitration treaty, by which the United States and France will agree to settle any future disputes by arbitration and thereby avoid wars, will in all probability be signed next Monday, according to Secretary of State Kellogg.

BOULDER DAM WINS VICTORY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Advocates of the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill scored a sweeping victory in the House Irrigation Committee to day, when it rejected amendments offered by Representative Douglas (D.) of Arizona aimed at the heart of the project.

Douglas failed to obtain a second to his motion to require consent of Arizona, as well as the other six states directly interested in the project, before construction of the Colorado river dam or any part of the works can be begun.

The bill calls for consent of California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming, but not Arizona.

Douglas also failed to obtain a second to a motion to strike out all provisions for the Government to aid in development of electrical power at the Boulder dam enterprise.

An amendment making improvement of navigation on the Colorado river as one of the purposes of the legislation was approved.

The committee also smothered a motion by Douglas to erect the dam near Parker, Ariz., instead of in Boulder canyon.

It was figured that this proposal would increase the cost of the project $40,000,000, and cause a revolt against the enterprise.

With these hurdles successfully negotiated, advocates of the bill expected the measure to be reported favorably within thirty-six hours.

Representative Leatherwood (R.) of Utah, who has been ill for weeks, left word with the committee today to record him as against reporting the bill.

It's Rain If Sun Shines Here Today

Whether we are to have sunshine or showers for the next six weeks will be decided today.

If it remains cloudy with plenty of fog, you can bet your last dime that it "ain't goin' to rain no more."

If the sun creeps out for merely five minutes, the weather man will have to tack a rain flag to the mast for the next six weeks.

For today is Groundhog day.

CONSTRUCTION BEGUN ON BANK

A temporary building permit issued to Wallace, Snellgrove by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley yesterday enabled the local contractor to start work on the new $50,000 Richmond Commercial and Savings bank at Twelfth street and Macdonald avenue.

Contract for the completion of the building calls for completion by June 1. All work will be done by local men and the materials will all be from local merchants as far as it is humanly possible.

The architect has chosen a dignified type of Italian renaissance and his design affords plenty of light space for the main banking room and the mezzanine to the rear of the building.

Concrete pilasters with pre-cast concrete capitals add to the strength and dignity of the building, while a tile roof and polychromed grill work on the windows and entrances offers color contrast to the coldness of the concrete.

Thomas B. Swift To Quit School Board

MARTINEZ, Feb. 1.—That T. B. Swift, clerk of the Martinez grammar school board for many years and superintendent of the Mt. Clepper Co., may not stand for reelection to the school board became known today when Swift announced that he seriously doubted that he would be a candidate to succeed himself on the board.

"I have shouldered many duties aside from my private business affairs," Swift said, "and I intend to unload quite a few of them." When asked if he would be a candidate to succeed himself on the school board, Swift replied: "I seriously doubt it."

CURRY DENIES RETIREMENT, TO RUN AGAIN

MARTINEZ, Feb. 1.—"I shall be a candidate for re-election to Congress. There is absolutely no truth in the story that I intend to retire. I have never had such an intention and do not intend to retire now. I am at a loss to understand how the rumor started and it may be set at rest for once and for all."

And that's that.

Friends of Congressman Chas. Curry, representing the Third California district (including Contra Costa County) in the lower house of Congress and dean of the California delegation, are inclined to believe that the "wish was father to the thought" in prompting the publication in Vallejo yesterday that Curry was to retire at the end of his present term.

Curry's sharp denial of the canard is welcomed by his host of friends throughout the district and the fact that he is to become a candidate to succeed himself is equivalent to election for such partisan opposition as he developed to Curry for many terms past has been half-hearted and intended only to preserve the opposing political faith's entity in the district.

Justice Issues Bench Warrant For Speeder

Failure to pay a $10 fine imposed upon Charles H. Walker of Crockett, for speeding 58 miles an hour on his motorcycle after he had been given a ten days stay in order to raise money, caused the arrest of the man yesterday.

Walker was arrested December 6 by State Traffic Officer G. A. Belon for speeding and at his trial held in Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Alstrom's court last December 13 was fined $10 and given ten days time in which to raise the money. As he had not appeared in court to pay the fine by January 24 a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. He will appear in court Tuesday, February 6 to answer to the original charges.

Mannerstam Found Guilty Of Machine Gun Charge

John P. Mannerstam, of Albany, president of the Pacific Arms Corporation, was yesterday found guilty of a charge of possessing machine guns after a jury in the Alameda county superior court had deliberated only 15 minutes.

As a result of the verdict, Mannerstam faces a sentence of not more than three years in San Quentin prison or a fine of $5,000 or both. He will appear tomorrow before Judge Gray for sentence.

An arsenal, including machine guns, was found in his home, 845 Cleveland avenue, Albany, when raided by Oakland police and Alameda county detectives November 17, 1927.

In tracing the shipment police learned it came from the Pacific Arms Corporation, of which Mannerstam is the head, with offices at 314 Liberty Bank Building, San Francisco. Mannerstam admitted making the shipment, but said that it was in the regular course of business.

Federal authorities started an investigation to determine whether Mannerstam was involved in any conspiracy in violation of Federal laws to smuggle contraband shipments of arms to foreign countries. Mannerstam, who is also under Federal indictment in connection with the confiscation of a truck-load of arms north of Santa Barbara last June, disappeared after the raid, but returned and gave himself up a few days later.

HICKMAN SAYS COMPLEX MADE HIM SLAY GIRL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—William Edward Hickman's so-called "motive" confessed concerning the kidnapping and killing of little Marion Parker was read into the records of his trial today.

This document, long withheld by the state, was introduced through the instrumentality of the defense along with Hickman's detailed story of the kidnapping and killing of the Parker girl. The purpose of this sudden and unexpected move, it was understood, was to maintain that the character of the crime was and the confessions themselves are such as to indicate the defendant's insanity.

Out of the tragic story, one theme most pitiful of all recurred again and again. This was the girl had so completely trusted her captor, had in fact got a "thrill" from the adventure at first. The salient passages of Hickman's "motive" confession are as follows:

"For several years I have had a peculiar complex. Even though my habits have always been clean, and although my school record is commendable, I have had an uncontrollable desire to commit a great crime.

"This peculiar feeling, and I believe that it borders on the edge of insanity or that it comes as a weird relief from seriousness or deep thought, found a means of expressing itself in the Parker case.

"I am very sensitive and have a strong sense of pride. I have not been able to find a real practical value in religion or enough satisfaction that it is based on absolute reason. My deep thought (Continued on Page Eight)

FACTIONAL GROWING

The real ground and lofty political tumbling is now being done entirely in democratic committee headquarters. Months before the democratic convention will be held the democracy of the country as a whole is split into Smith and anti-Smith factions, and the amount of ill feeling existing and daily increasing is the equal of the highest point of rage which the democrats after one hundred ballots were able in 1924 to achieve at their Madison Square session.

The situation is indeed discouraging from a democratic viewpoint. In the Northern states the great rank and file of the party or that portion of it which is generally known as the "Six o'clock in the morning voters," is determined to have Smith or nobody. Their program either rules or ruins.

In the financial centers of these Northern cities, however, to whom the selection of a president is a business as well as a political function, the determination to deny Smith the nomination is stronger than ever. In New York state particularly, the leaders of the plutocratic democratic group (and strange as it may seem, there are some of those) are working day and night in the hope of eliminating Smith and substituting Owen Young.

As for the Smith, while it is true that the republicans will do well to view with considerable doubt the possibility of breaking into that arena if Smith is nominated, the plain truth, notwithstanding the predictions of Cole Bleas and other democratic leaders, is that the South is anti-Smith and this sentiment can only be changed by forced political feedings. It is indeed unfortunate that a great party is thus divided on a religious issue which our Constitution ignores. But facts are facts! Meanwhile, McAdoo's great gesture to pave the way for a "Me too," from Al Smith, has failed disastrously. Smith is stronger today than before McAdoo's declaration was made.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARIES

For all of the discussion, it is reasonably plain that there will be no change in the law affecting in any way the seventeen states which have presidential primaries. For the information of the sharps and experts on political affairs, we are again printing the names of the states and the dates when the presidential New Hampshire, first, on March 6; North Dakota, March 20; Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio in April; California, Maryland, Indiana, New Jersey, Oregon, South Dakota and West Virginia in May; Florida, June 5.

As to the claim that voters do not want to attend primaries, apparently that arises only when they are interested.

The total of all votes cast at direct primaries in 1920 was 8,456,459. Two years later it was 11,567,998. Last year it was 13,829,215.

How To Earn Money At Home

By Sara Spence

Nursing is a hard profession. And it is also one of the greatest. To be able to bring comfort to the sick, to help those who are afflicted, builds a noble and respected character. The regular nurses' training requires three years. This is not much, of course, if you have the time, and while you are learning you are paid $24 to $36 a month allowance and entire maintenance.

However, for those who do not want to follow the profession but who would like to do a little nursing in their spare time, there is a one year course in practical nursing which pays a $15 a month allowance and maintenance. These may seem like long periods of training to you, dear readers, but remember, it is one profession where a job is always certain. As long as people will be cared for, they will need your services. And you can help them while you earn your own living.

Have recently read in your column of some one interested in beauty culture. I have a beauty parlor, and would like to take in a partner and teach the course if interested. It would be a very good proposition for some woman trying to support herself with a small investment, but must be willing to work. I would like to help somebody who is worthy.

From London comes an attractive new sweater with vertical stripes in sombre colors. It is a pull-over affair and is featured in such combinations as brown and beige, black and white, blue and green.

FOR THE DAYTIME WARDROBE

For the active hours of sport or the restful hours of teatime one may appropriately wear the costume to the left, composed of a jaunty skirt and slip-on blouse, the skirt being of novelty flannel and the blouse of tub crepe. Paris is sponsoring suspenders of Roman-striped ribbon and four-in-hand ties of collegiate splendor, but the combinations are most effective. Medium size requires 1 1/2 yard 34-inch material for skirt and 1 1/2 yard 36-inch crepe for blouse.

Navy and beige are replacing black and white combinations in many smart wardrobes, therefore the stunning model to the right, with square-necked blouse and plaid skirt. An interesting note is the fact that the skirt is attached to a two-piece side-closing yoke. Medium size requires 2 yards 36-inch light and 2 1/2 yards dark material.

First Model: Pictorial Review Pattern No. 3849. Sizes 14 to 18 years and 34 to 38 bust, 50 cents. Monogram No. 579. Any three-letter pattern 3 inches high, 60 cents.

Second Model: Pictorial Review Pattern No. 3869. Sizes 14 to 18 years and 34 to 38 bust, 50 cents. Embroidery No. 12864, transfer, blue or yellow, 50 cents.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

When should a wife cease to be her husband's pal—the moment that her own life is crowded with the full-sized job of bringing up her children?

Should she devote all of her time to the youngsters, or should she save part of it for her husband? Should he take it for granted that, now that she is a mother, she has no more opportunity or inclination to share his good times?

This is a problem which many a young couple have had to figure out in those first important years of their marriage. Upon it may rest their future happiness. They must find some plan by which they can continue to have those good times together which helped to strengthen and develop their love.

True happiness can never exist long where the wife is merely a housekeeper for her family and where the husband seeks outside companionship for those hours of relaxation. It is so easy, at first, to a mother to take the attitude that she would rather stay at home with the children than trust them to the care of some outsider. Her mind conjures up a thousand and one physical dangers that might come to them in her absence.

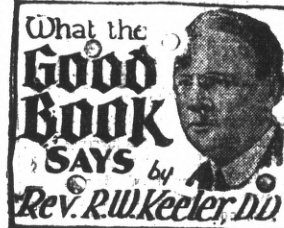

But does she think of the thousand and one dangers which might come to them should she and her husband, upon whom they are dependent for their very existence, grow farther and farther apart? Let her rather brave the physical dangers, let her trust her children to some competent woman for at least one evening in the week, while she cements that comradeship which is a necessity in every successful marriage.

My Dear Miss Lee: I have been married five years and have three lovely children. I am 25 years old and my husband 27. He goes out every Saturday night with his friends in a machine. Sometimes he stays out all night and when I ask him not to, he tells me that he only goes out once a week. Please tell me what to do about it—HELEN.

Can't you possibly arrange for some out to take care of your children that night each week and suggest to your husband that you go along too? Tell him that you need to get away from the house once a week, too, and let him plan on taking you. Of course I think that you should be willing that your husband go out by himself once in a while.

Dear Patricia Lee: I am heartbroken and turning to you for advice. I have been going with a young man for five years, and I love him more than anything in the world. We are engaged and I told him all about my past and the mistakes I had made and now he is always casting it up to me. Do you think he would do this if he really cared for me the way he should? What can I do to make sure that he does, care for me?

BRIGHT EYES You are engaged to the man and you are not sure that he cares for you! That is a situation that won't go on very long; you'll find out one way or the other I am sure. I think you were foolish to tell him all about your past, for personally to think there are very few men who are big enough to forgive a woman for things that he considers

LON CHANEY IN MYSTERY FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Grim realities made still more grim by the supernatural tinge of ghosts, apparitions and spectres, form the basis for Lon Chaney's new role as a detective using modern science amid the mysteries of the Great Beyond, in "London
After Midnight," Metro-Goldwyn Mayer's thrilling new mystery play now being shown at the California Theatre.

It is a fantasy of spectres, weird shadows and strange denizens of the world beyond—echoes of the strange haunts of the English, and of the modern achievements in psychic research, are blended into a fantastic tale. But, despite all these strange details, it is a story of modern fact and cold science. The ghosts are scientifically explained in the end—in one of the most remarkable climaxes ever seen on the screen.

Suspicion stalks abroad in the grim detective mystery, and until the final flash, when the mystery is solved, the audience is kept in constant suspense. Chaney, as "Burke," the Scotland Yard Detective, using hypnotism as a tool to ferret out a hidden murderer, has ample opportunity for his gift for makeup in several weird disguises, and in one scene he is actually seen making up something never before made public.

The cast is a splendid one, with Marceline Day as a very attractive heroine, Conrad Nagel as the romantic lover, and Henry B. Walt, hall and Claude King, both splendid character actors, as two men of mystery in the uncanny plot.
Julius Cowles and Polly Moran contribute comedy relief, and Percy Williams, Andy McClellan, and others of note have adequate Other features on the same program include "No Sparkling", a Jimmie Adams comedy, and "River of Suds", a scenic novelty, and current news events.

Reply To Note

To "Mr. and Mrs. Name and Address Furnished"

Why should "Mr. Name and address furnished" steal so much credit from the county dry squad

by saying that "we have only recently put San Pablo on the map?"

Why should "Mr. Name and address furnished" swell up and bust the buttons from his waistcoat at this belated hour in gloating over his wonderful wisdom and gift of a seer, knowing all before it happens, and scathing his fellow townsmen and neighbors for something they never dreamed of, and who hold the sanctity of the home and the respect of the community with just as much regard as this

"Mr. Know-it?"

If this all wise person whoever it may be, had a knowledge of things and affairs that no one else possessed, and which would have been a benefit for his neighbors to know, why did that person stand by like an oyster and after it was all over accuse his neighbors of unfaithfulness?

The fact is, that some 1200 respectable and law-abiding people here and elsewhere, were sincere in their movement surrounding the petitions in question, and which were immediately dropped upon learning the truth, and that ended the matter for all time.

If "Mr. Know-it" happened to know as much as he would lead the people here to believe, the scoring of our citizens and criticisms of their movement would not have appeared.

SOVIETS TRY FOR SIX-HOUR WORKING DAY

MOSCOW, Feb. 1.—Seven hours work a day is enough! Our ultimate goal is six hours. Man or woman slaving at high-speed machines can really enjoy all the fruits of life by working longer. The seven-hour-day plan is only the beginning of a gigantic man-power conservation program. Modern civilization conserves its forests; it pets and pampers its machines and nurses blooded cattle; but its human beings are worn down and cast off because they are cheap. I know that garment workers, for example, are too exhausted after 8 hours at the machines that they are unfit for any recreation or cultural development.

Life must offer more than food, work and sleep. We have libraries, theatres, concert halls especially for workers. We don't want the men to be so tired that they can't enjoy these advantages to the fullest extent.

Unfortunately our economic condition will not permit an immediate reduction in hours. Efficiency engineers have been instructed to boost production by greater mechanization and better organization of industries. The workers will be taught to work more efficiently by factory superintendents. Thousands of them have voluntarily speeded up.

For the accomplishment of all this we have given experts one year—until October 1, 1928. It may take longer in some industries than in others, and longer in various plants of the same industry than in others. But by next October the seven-hour day will be put into effect in all factories, mills and mines where production has been "rationalized." In two or three years the seven-hour day ought to be nation-wide in scope except for brain workers in office, schools and clinics, where the six-hour day is already a rule.

We are confident that the production will be greater in seven hours than in eight. We have no wide practical experience to back our judgment; yet we are not trusting to luck. When shortly after the revolution we cut the hours from ten to eight, we found as other countries have, that production did not fall off. Since then the man-hour production has increased from 15 to 35 per cent.

"Get the message through"

IN THE Sixties the "pony express" carried the mail over mountain and Indian wilderness from St. Joseph, Missouri, to San Francisco. The express riders and station keepers won undying fame for getting the message through, regardless of hardship or danger.

In fact and in spirit, the Bell System is the lineal descendant of the pony express. Operators volunteer to remain at their switchboards in the face of fire, flood or other great danger. Linemen go out to repair the lines in time of accident or storm—even at the risk of their lives.

There are no instructions requiring Bell System employees to endanger their lives. It is the spirit of communication that bids them, "Get the message through."

Submarine Crew Of S-3 Fought To Raise Craft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—While life remained the imprisoned crew of the submarine S-3 tried vainly to effect their own rescue by raising one end of the sunken craft above the surface.

This was the conclusion reached today by divers who explored the hull of the submarine in its "grave" off Provincetown, Mass. The navy department announced. The divers found that the ship's crew were evidently in the act of blowing water from the ballast tank when life expired. The stern plane indicator also showed a rise of about 19 degrees.

Milk Conditions In U. S. Scored

Startling and shocking are the facts revealed by a recent survey of market milk in small towns of the United States according to a statement issued yesterday by Dr. C. R. Blake, City Health Commissioner. In towns and cities having populations of less than 30,000, the milk as a general rule is dirty and contaminated. According to a report of the American Child Health Association, which has co-operated in investigating in 19 states, the milk supplies of small towns are high in bacteria, seldom come from tuberculin tested cattle and are rarely pasteurized.

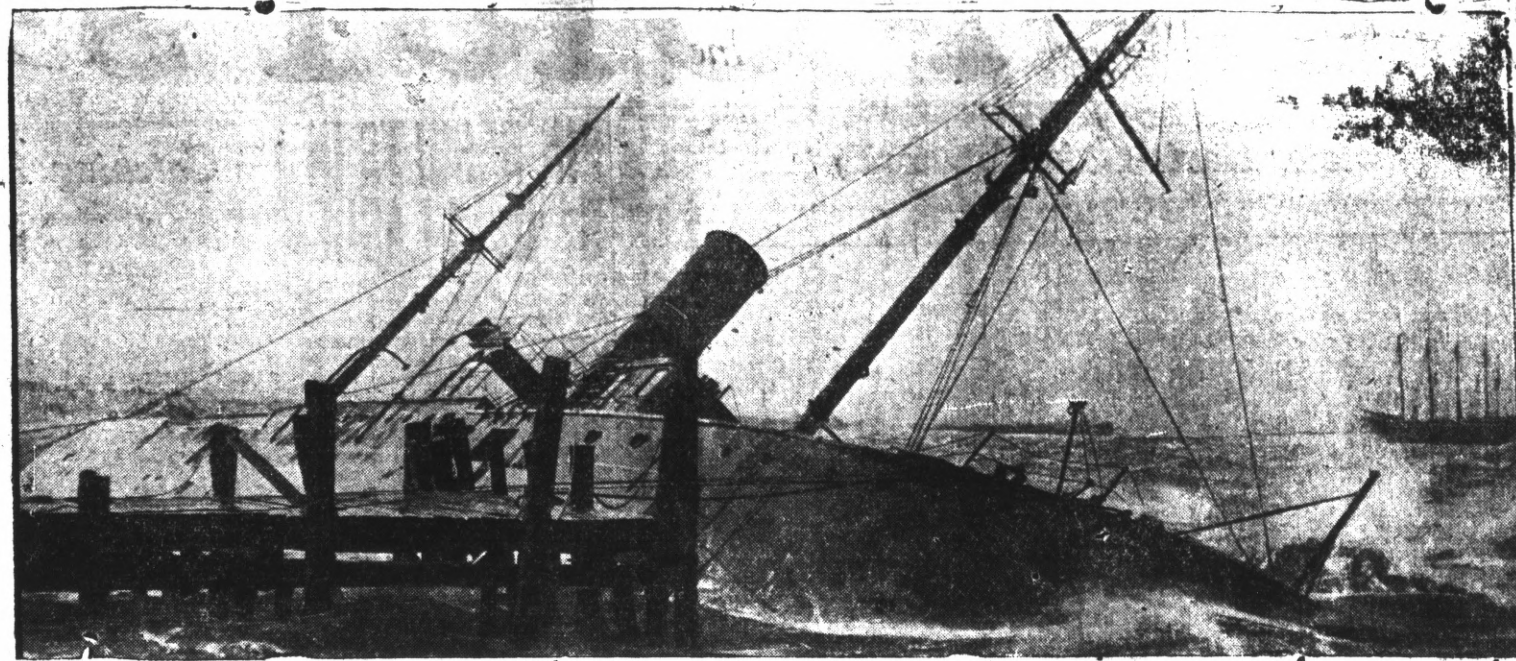

In 117 small cities and towns studied, an average of milk supplies examined contained 200,000 or more bacteria per c. c. while an average of 40 per cent had 100,000 or more bacteria. Fifty-one cities gave a positive test for B. Coli or typhoid fever in 50 per cent or more of the supplies tested and 21 cities gave such a positive test in 75 per cent or more. Physical standards used for showing dirt revealed that most of the dirt was actually "dirty." In only two places could 75 per cent of the supplies be classed as "clean" or even "dully clean."

Not one of the 117 towns or cities had 90 per cent pasteurization and 97 of these communities had no pasteurization at all. These facts are in direct contrast to the large cities of the country as more than half of the cities with a population of 100,000 or greater now have 90 per cent or more of their milk supplies pasteurized.

These significant facts call for a strenuous effort on the part of sanitarians to assure a better and purer supply of the best of foods of man.

Campaigns to induce people to drink milk are valuable because good milk is the one nearly perfect nutrient but along with these campaigns must go assiduous endeavors to secure clean and safe milk, said Dr. Blake.

There are apparently many parts of the country where it is wiser to use some form of concentrated milk, such as the dried product than the extremely dangerous milk supply. The milk furnished in our large cities, at least that supplied by the more reputable companies, may be

Radio Commission Orders Wave Length Adjustment

(By Universal Service) WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—With colder weather extending the range of broadcast reception, serious interference has developed on at least 40 wave-lengths, the Federal Radio Commission revealed.

Grappling with one of its greatest problems since taking office, the commission has notified offending stations to adjust the interference difficulties.

Heterodyning from powerful stations is the most common complaint. As long as warm weather limited the range of reception, heterodyning was not serious. Commissioner Sam Pickard pointed out. With colder weather, however, the distant stations are beginning to be picked up on the listener's dials. In many cases, however, only a screeching whistle is heard, evidence that two or more stations are conflicting on the same wave length.

Small Town Hardship Radio listeners in the big cities are not so concerned over this interference as those of the rural sections. There are usually several big broadcasting programs from powerful nearby stations to satisfy the wants of the city listener. Outside of the larger cities, however, where distant stations must be relied on for service, particularly the south and certain west and mid-west sections, is where the interference hardships is felt.

Small town and rural patrons, the most faithful and enthusiastic listeners comprise at least half of the radio audience the commission pointed out.

"This group is entitled to good radio and the commission is going to see that they get it," Commissioner Pickard said.

Stations causing interference on each heterodyning channel during the coming summer will be asked by the commission to

Bill Seeks To Disclose Stocks Held By Officials

(By Universal Service) WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A sweeping resolution designed to disclose to what extent high federal officials are financially interested in public utilities and other vast business combines was introduced by Senator Frazier (R) of North Dakota, today.

The resolutions would require all federal employees, receiving an annual salary of $3,000 or more, to file a public inventory of his stock and bond holdings in public utilities corporations, and all industrial, railroad, banking, shipping, mining, oil, and other corporations, firms and partnerships with the Federal Trade Commission before March 31, 1929.

This broad provision would include the President and his cabinet members of Congress, Federal judges, and virtually all the major officials of the government. Although the resolution would apply to holdings in other industries, it was intended chiefly to reveal if any senators or representatives are financially interested in the so called "Power Trust" and its subsidiaries.

Because of its sweeping provisions, it was indicated that a determined effort would be made by some senate leaders to prevent the resolution from coming before the senate for action.

Meanwhile vigorous opposition to the Walsh resolution, which provides for an investigation into the power combine, was registered before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee by James M. Emory, attorney for the National Association of Manufacturers, who declared the proposed probe would

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

By MAYOR JAMES J. WALKER of New York City

THE MAYOR EXPOSES JESS WILLARD

I don't know whether or not Jess Willard is a Republican, but I've always wanted to sit down and write a sport column exposing him.

It is a very easy matter to expose Jess Willard because, as I recall his measurements, he scales about 245 pounds, and stands 6 feet on my feet.

When I say that he stands 6 feet 6 inches on my feet, I mean exactly that, as you shall see as this thing goes along.

I have always been on hand whenever Jack Dempsey fought. I like those slam-bang fighters. I guess I've seen Dempsey throw that left hook from Toledo to Chicago and generally there was a bit of dynamite riding on it.

But the Dempsey fight I remember most distinctly is one I didn't see, although I had a first row seat for it. It was the Dempsey-Firpo fight, at the Polo Grounds. I had a seat in Row A and yet I didn't see the scrap.

That's why I want to expose Jess Willard.

Willard was sitting next to me at the fight that night. I didn't mind that because when start shadow boxing during fight I need a big fellow next to me to soak up the punishment. Paul Block makes it a rule to sit two seats away from me, because when they are throwing punches in the ring I'm going through all the motions outside the ring.

Now, I don't like to seem conceited over my punching, but I must have given Willard a terrible beating during the preliminary fights that night or he wouldn't have acted the way he did.

SEEING THE FIGHT IN THE FIRST EDITIONS

In the first round Firpo was chinning himself on the canvas. Dempsey would clout him with that left hand and Firpo would take a bow.

He was all tied up in a bow-knot by the time the round was half over. I know this fact because I read it in the papers. I didn't see it.

For, when Dempsey was knocked right out of the ring into the circulation department of the Times-Tribune-Sun, this Willard fellow jumped into the air. "Whoopie!" he yelled, and that is the last thing I remember.

"Now, Jess, be reasonable," I tried to tell him. "Let me see the fight too."

He didn't hear me.

So I wound up and hit in the small of the back with a right hand punch. I put everything on it I had, and it wasn't enough.

I tried to climb up on his back, but some one else had beaten me to it.

"Who's winning, Jess?" I called out to him. Maybe he didn't know at least he didn't tell me.

All I saw during that fight was Jess Willard's back. As backs go, it is a very large back, but it needs a skylight.

And I read about the fight in the papers next day.

So when I say that Jess Willard stand 6 feet 6 inches ON MY TOES you'll understand what I mean.

TENNIS TEAMS TO COMPETE IN CLUB MATCHES

First and second teams to represent the Richmond Tennis club in inter-club matches will be decided by a round of elimination games to be played on the city courts, starting Sunday, February 5. Both women's and men's teams will be picked from these games, according to A. S. Remell, chairman of the tournament.

Outstanding in the ranks of players are Nevo Chausser, now third ranking player at the University of California and L. S. Fish, former Stanford varsity player. Much will be expected of these men to uphold the Richmond club in the inter-club games that are yet to be scheduled.

Starting Sunday the following players will meet:

9 a. m.—Wally Krueger vs. A. S. Remell; Bill Regalia vs. Carl Peterson.

10 a. m.—Ed. Fanning vs. Claire Bryant; Marvin Trutt vs. L. F. Moore.

11 a. m.—Herbert Hunn vs. Henry Bill; Reese Hays vs. L. J. Phillips.

sters seem to be the answer, for Dan is evidently banking on putting the Browns back in the running by developing his young talent and leaning on it for years to come.

In addition to Coffman, the Browns have Stewart and Ernie Neyers. Each has a year of big league pitching behind him, and should be more effective next season. Howley still insists that Stewart will be as great a left hander as Grove with a little more experience. If he can bring his youngsters around to performing as well for him as Bucky Harris did with Hadley and Lisenee last season, the Browns might finish in a more elevated position, for they have acquired a lot of hitting strength in Lu Blue, Heinie Manush and McInnes.

Coffman, while only 29, is a young giant, standing six feet two inches in height and weighing 180 pounds. His specialty is a fast ball, and Mr. Bishop reports that he has plenty of "swift," as the technical term has it.

If he looks good with the Browns next season, remember I told you about him. If he doesn't look good, remember it was Mr. Bishop.

DOORS CLOSED TO HEIRESS OF BAYER FORTUNE

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The New York Daily Mirror prints this copyrighted article.

Efforts of the wealthy parents of Sybil Bayer, niece of Jules K. Bayer, internationally known banker, to annul the marriage of the $5,000,000 heiress to a necktie clerk, Vincent Edward Brown, turned today to investigation of young Brown's past.

That the girl's father Edwin S. Bayer, president of Julius Kaysers & Co., has been given information by private detectives working in Paris that afford him cause for belief that he may break up the romance was learned in an exclusive interview by the Daily Mirror.

The Daily Mirror, which obtained the great society revelation exclusively, also obtained an interview with the bride, in seclusion today "somewhere in New Jersey," where every other paper had failed—one in which she revealed that the doors of her father's magnificent home had been barred to her as long as she clings to her husband.

"She is no longer in association with this home," said the father grimly.

"For the past several months my agents in Paris have been investigating certain reports," he continued. "They also have been investigating Brown's friendship with another wealthy young society woman who is married."

"My daughter knew about these affairs before she eloped with Brown."

Bayer was extremely bitter against Brown. This gave color to an alleged episode of about a week or so ago, when Bayer, informed that his daughter and Brown were visiting the apartment of a friend, hurried here in the belief that the elopement had been planned for that night.

He encountered young Brown as he entered. It is said, and after a few words, swung his umbrella and broke it over the astounded youth's head.

Phone Users Protective Assn. Compiles Data For Rate War

If talk was formerly cheap it now is expensive, particularly for large business men operating private exchanges in their establishments. It was shown in comparative rate figures made public yesterday by W. Herbert Graham, president of the Telephone Users' Protective Association.

Graham said facts and figures with which to combat the telephone company's proposal for a huge increase in rates are now being assembled by the Association in cooperation with the east bay city attorneys and the experts employed by them to do research work.

Big stores and other places operating private exchanges will be hard hit, Graham declared. Their increases in telephone charges will run as high as 113 per cent and will run in some cases to staggering sums per month, his figures showed.

A feature of the proposed increase is that the flat rate is abolished and all business service is on a message rate basis. For the smaller type of private exchange having three trunk lines seven stations and using 1,000 messages a month the present cost is $35.25. In this there is no message charge. Under the proposal the message charge alone would be $40 a month, and the total charge would be $65, an increase of $29.75 or 84 per cent a month.

The next larger type of exchange with four trunks, ten stations and 1500 messages a month now costs $46.50, of which $25 is a charge for messages. Under the new rate the message alone would be $60, making a total of $99, an increase of $52.50 a month or 113 per cent.

Studying the still larger type of exchange in use by many east bay establishments, it was found that a five trunk station with fifteen stations and 2,000 messages a month now costs the user $62.25 of which $35 is a message charge. Under the new rate this user would pay $80 for messages alone and his total bill for the month would be $126, increasing his charge of $65.75, or 106 per cent.

"It can be seen from these figures," said Graham, "that business people will find the telephone an absolute necessity will be hard hit under the proposed increase asked by the telephone company. The residential user will suffer as much so far as percentage increase is concerned, though of course the amount of money involved is much smaller in each case."

WEALTHY SCION KILLS HIMSELF IN NEW MEXICO

SANTA FE (N. M.), Feb. 1.—

W. Barton French of New York, said to be a relative of the Vanderbilt family, was found dead here today under circumstances that indicated suicide, according to announcement of the coroner's office. French was shot to death with a 38-caliber revolver, the bullet entering just above and a little to the right of the right ear. He died almost instantly.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict early this afternoon that French came to his death from self-inflicted revolver wounds.

He came to New Mexico several years ago to "settle down on a ranch in order to get away from the temptations of city life" he was quoted as saying.

French is a scion of one of New York's best known families, kept society's tongues wagging

PARIS, Feb. 1.—A mutual divorce action, ending the romance of Mme. Ganna Walska, Polish singer, and Harold F. McCormick, Chicago multimillionaire, may be filed within the next six days, it was learned today from friends of the wife.

A financial settlement is holding up the action. Mme. Walska is understood to be demanding $3,500,000 whereas McCormick seeks to settle upon a basis of half that sum.

"These divorce rumors are very amusing to me," "I shall not deny the same thing every week."

on this subject and my apparent disappointment with my conclusions have shaken my sense of morality.

"However, I do not believe that I am insane or crazy, yet I do think that this complex of mine should not be considered least among my motives in this crime."

"I do not consider crime seriously enough. I think that I want something, no matter what means I have to use to secure it. I am justified in getting it. My record of crime illustrates this statement very thoroughly."

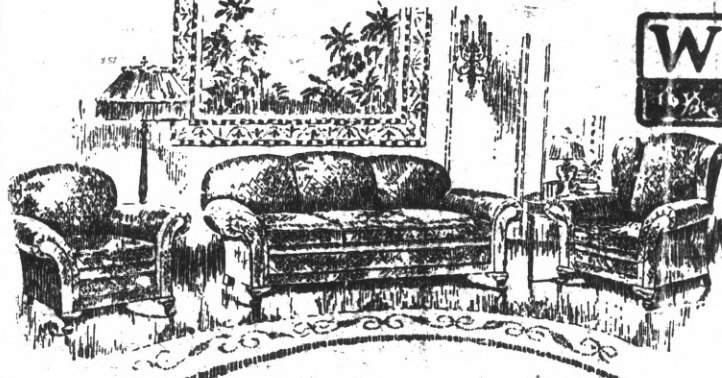

"Even in the murder of Marie Parker, I could not realize the terrible guilt. I felt that some kind of providence was guiding and protecting me in this whole case. These facts I believe are associated with my complex."
